THE SCHOOL ELECTION

Of the 1,500 votes cast at the school election yesterday Mr. Leech received 1[illegible]. While the friends of Mr. Leech were confident of his election the size of his majority is a surprise to most of them. The vote was the largest ever cast at a school election in the city.

It is very easy to see the causes of this success. It represents in the first place a determination of the citizens without lessening the standard of education to insist on close attention to economy and good business methods in school affairs. No criticism of past actions of the Board is intended but the people have felt the need of emphasizing the practical rather than the theoretical side of school affairs. Secondly, the voters have recognized the justice of the demand of the West Side for representation on the Board. It is well that this has been done and it will tend to secure a more hearty and united support of the schools as a whole from all sections of the city.

Voters both male and female were evidently not misled by the attempts which were made to bring side issues into prominence and the result is one in which all friends of the city schools may find satisfaction. It is a fact not generally known that Mr. Leech has had considerable experience as a teacher having been actively employed for some time in the State of Iowa. There is no reason why he should not be a useful and valuable member of the Board.

THE NAVAJO TROUBLE.

The Indian scare is over. The prompt action of the government's officials has perhaps saved many lives and much property, it has certainly prevented much [illegible] and avoided costly ex[illegible]nditure.

The surrender of the Indians who were accused of the murder of the white man, Welch [illegible] the good sense of the Indians and the settlers in the Southwest can now attend to their spring plowing without carrying a rifle or go to town without expecting to find their cabins burned and their families murdered upon their return.

The only people who will regret the cessation of hostilities before they were begun are the unreasoning Indian haters, and the plunderers who were looking for another Ute war, to get their share of pony blankets and other valuables.

A CUBAN REVOLUTION

Spanish oppression and Cuba's wrongs are an old story, and there is nothing new in the report of a revolutionary outbreak in that island. There have been wrongs enough in Cuba to justify revolution a hundred times over, and enough patriotic blood has been shed to win the freedom of a continent. It is not therefore the justice of the cause with which the world will concern itself so much as the chances of success of the revolutionists. The former may be taken for granted, the latter judging from the past, is extremely doubtful.

If the Columbian year should witness the redemption of Cuba from grinding taxation and unwarrantable personal oppression, no one would be more heartily glad than the people of the United States, but they will not look with pleasure upon another [illegible] and ill considered attempt. As has been [illegible] observed there has only been one way to distinguish between a traitor and a patriot, and that is by the success of his enterprise.

OPENING THE FAIR

Yesterday was very far from being the last day of the Fair but it was in some senses the most important. The World's Columbian Exposition is open and whatever splendor or special interest may attach itself to any of the other days of the Fair no other can be the First day.

A general feeling of regret is expressed that the Fair is not in more complete order but a little reflection should convince even the most critical that a condition of completeness at the beginning of such an Exposition is an impossibility. No World's Fair ever held has been complete on the opening day and it is eminently probable that none ever will be. Considering what has been done in the time which was available the result is nothing short of marvelous. Let us be content with this and overlook any deficiencies. The truth of the matter is that people have grown so accustomed to the accomplishment of seeming impossibilities by Chicago and similar western cities that the ordinary mind refuses to acknowledge any limitations to their power.

But even if the Fair on the opening day does not display all that it will at a later period there is enough to engage the attention of all who were present yesterday. The great buildings, now practically completed in themselves form a spectacle worth traveling from the ends of the earth to behold. It is not alone that they include the largest buildings in the world but that in beauty of design and finish and as component parts of a harmonious whole they are worthy of the nation of the ocean and of the exhibits of the world's riches and the world's progress which they are destined to contain.

Already many of the exhibits especially of the foreign nations are ready. The British exhibit is in good shape the German is well advanced as much can be said for those of Switzerland Netherlands and Austria, and many of the smaller displays are already much as they will remain during the Fair. The Woman's building one of the best worth it will both for what it contains and for what it symbolizes, has been one of the most [illegible] in the preparation.

There will be [illegible] plenty to [illegible] blowing [illegible] perhaps six days than any one person, and after all the greatness of the Fair depends more upon those who look than on the different as between a Fair just opened, and a Fair at its highest point of perfection.

RULES OF HOME RULE

This day the bill for Irish Home Rule will be brought up for consideration in the committee of the whole in the House of Commons, and thus enter upon the second stage of its parliamentary career. It is already certain that this stage will be a long and hazardous one. The elements of the opposition to the bill are numerous and varied and their attacks will lack neither force nor ingenuity. The old line Conservatives with whom it is a matter of inherited disposition to hate everything that is proposed by the Liberals the friends of [illegible] Constitutions and Home Rule will [illegible] far that the bill for Home Rule [illegible] or be followed by the [illegible] changes in the political institutions of the British empire the Protestants of northern Ireland who are [illegible] to the Catholics the English Liberal Unionists, who may cease [illegible] those who are hostile [illegible] to the bill because they believe it will lead to something further in England or Ireland or for the emancipation of the Irish themselves [illegible] quarreling with traditional utterances here [illegible] opposition quite sufficient to insure a vigorous fight against the bill if not [illegible] endanger its success in the committee.

The plan of opposition for which [illegible] credit is given to Lord Randolph Churchill is certainly an ingenious one and one which gives an opportunity for the exercise of the full strength of all the somewhat incongruous opposition detailed above. Every member is to be free to offer as many amendments as he pleases, and according to parliamentary rules each member will be free to speak as many times as he pleases upon each one of these amendments. The opportunity here offered for filibustering is one to make a Southern Congressman lament his nativity and sufficient beyond doubt to delay a vote upon the bill for many months. Even the Irish members who are known as Parnellites, while they would not dare to call themselves anything else than Home Rulers, will improve an opportunity to amend the bill which is not altogether in accordance with their wishes, and thus assist the plan of their enemies.

The only objection to this plan, is that which is brought forward by such ultra Conservatives as the Marquis of Londonderry who denied the right of the House to enact any such bill, and urged that the only consistent policy for the Conservatives was to refrain from any participation whatever in debate or voting upon any amendments. Such an opinion was not shared by his associates, who evidently regarded it as too antique for an era of popular government.

Under the plan adopted, there will be a long period of delay, and a great deal of time wasted in public discussion, and the American people will have abundant leisure to [illegible] a great many other things before the Irish Home Rule bill is again brought to a decisive vote.

Cyclones are of almost daily occurrence this spring. It is natural to look for some determining cause for such violent and repeated disturbances of the earth's atmosphere and the report of the astronomers who will [illegible] the recent total eclipse will be awaited with interest. Should there be evidence of exceptional disturbance in the sun certain theorists would be greatly strengthened.

Another Australian bank is added to the list of recent failures in that country, the latest victim being the National Bank of Australia. The gravity of the situation is indicated by the announcement of a bank holiday for the first five days of this week throughout Victoria. This is simply a suspension of payments by all banks for that period. The situation is most critical.

Those best qualified to speak have been constant in their assertions that the railroads would enter Cripple Creek as early as the season would permit, but it is pleasant to have these declarations reiterated at the opening of spring. Cripple Creek certainly deserves railroads and their construction will be beneficial both to the companies and to the State.

The Young Men's Christian association of this city has been fortunate in securing for its annual meeting a speaker of such wide reputation as Hon. John Wanamaker. A large attendance at the opera house on Wednesday evening is assured and the desirable result of a wider interest in the work of the association is probable.

The decision of the Denver court in favor of Alderman Curtigan gives him a legal right to his position. The disgraceful manner in which that position was attained remains a matter of record.

An unfavorable turn in the condition of Edwin Booth dispels the hopes which had been raised of his recovery. The nation can ill afford to lose men of such eminence in any department.

One of the new railroad projects is a branch line to the Wet Mountain valley. The wise policy of the last legislature of non intervention seems already to be bearing fruit.

Reports from the Henry mountains continue favorable and everything indicates the development there the coming season of a gold camp of considerable importance.

Food of the Screech Owl

The little screech owl well known in most parts of the country is inestimable in its work of destroying mice and insects. It may often be seen at dusk hovering about barns and outbuildings watching for mice, making the fields and hedges its favorite haunts. Many birds of this species [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] that most destructive [illegible] mice which [illegible] such [illegible] to the [illegible] grain. [illegible] mice which [illegible] nests [illegible] trunks [illegible] mice which [illegible] nest [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Brit vs Carter

The following is taken from the Raleigh, N C, State Chronicle of April 26

WAKE FOREST, N C April 25—Special—The Philomathesian Literary Hall was the afternoon the scene of a beautiful and brilliant wedding. Mr James M Brinkley of New Berne now a young lawyer of Colorado Springs, Col was the groom, and Miss Mamie Carter, daughter of Mrs. S. R. Carter, and for the last six months a resident of the Hill, was the bride. Both parties were well known and much loved and esteemed by all who knew them and a large number of friends were present at the ceremony.

Mr. W. L. Poushee of Reidsville was best man and Miss Mattie Greatmey maid of honor. The ushers were Messrs J W Bailey of Raleigh, George Blanton of Shelby, and F. P. Hargood, Jr., of Oxford.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train via Raleigh for their destined home in the W. Wake Forest extends to them the best wishes and all the happiness which the world can give them.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

A large number of young men thoroughly enjoyed Dr T G Horn's "talk on "The Lungs," given last evening at the Y M C A rooms At the conclusion of the Doctor's lecture a hearty vote of thanks was given him

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y M C A is called for this afternoon at 4:30. Important matters are to come before them and a full attendance is desired

The event of the week occurs on next Wednesday evening when Hon John Wanamaker speaks at the opera house. Solo singing by Mr Stout selections by the C. quartet double quartet, and the free admission should fill the house full on that evening A plate collection will be taken during the evening to defray the expenses The committee in charge wish it understood that the ladies are expected to be present of course

The season's musical event will be Stark's Austro Hungarian Orchestra. They will give one popular concert only at the Opera House on next Saturday evening. The orchestra is one of the best organized concert orchestras at present in the United States, and Leader Ferdinand Stark justly ranks as one of the foremost violin soloists of the day. The concerts at the Grand Tabor in Denver have been the musical features pleasant event of Denver's history. Persons desiring to attend these concerts can secure seats the usual days in advance. Price of admission for reserved seats will be 50 cents and $1

Miss Fletcher & Harriott who recently formed a partnership for the purpose of engaging in the mining broker age, real estate loans and insurance are both gentlemen of considerable business experience Mr Fletcher was formerly cashier of the German National bank of Newark, N J, which position he occupied for thirteen years, and Mr Harriott ex City Clerk, was engaged in the Chemical National bank of New York for seven years. They will make Colorado Springs and will no doubt do a successful business They have pleasant offices in the new El Paso building

Many strangers in the city express surprise that we should have a fall of snow such as came Sunday night. The weather early Monday reminded one of our oldest citizens of the great snow storm the 1st of April and first of May, 1873 the 1st of April and first of May, 1873 at that time 6 inches of snow fell on the level, which melted so fast as to DELICATE HEAT MEASUREMENT Mr Boys with his radio-micrometer, says knowledge, can observe a deflection of the instrument which is due to a temperature difference of less than one two-millionth of a degree Centigrade. In one particular case the surface receiving the radiant heat is a disc only 2 millimeters (about 1 12 inch) in diameter, and when the scale is 30 inches from the mirror, the hand held about a yard from the instrument produces at once a deflection of 16 centimeters (6¼ inches), shown by the spot of light thrown by the mirror on the scale Mr. Boys also calculates that the heat received by a half penny at 1500 feet from a candle flame would, if concentrated on the sensitive surface, produce a perceptible deflection.

Cripple Creek Gold Fields.

This camp has been wonderfully developed during the past year, so to-day there are at least fifty mines that have been and are shipping pay ore to the stamp mills and smelters, and hundreds of good prospects that are pushing development work daily, so that by the time the railroads are completed into the camp many of them will doubtless be shipping properties of pay ore.

The LARGE POWER STAMP MILL now being completed, with all the known modern improvements for treating low grade ores is rapidly, and will begin operations May 1st treating a hundred tons of ore per day

The future of this camp is assured. We believe this is a good time to make profitable investments in many of the GOLD MINING STOCKS of this camp, and will take pleasure in furnishing the best information we have regarding the different properties. Call on or address
